DESCRIPTION

The "Egg" hanging chair was designed in 1959 by Danish designer Nanna Ditzel, known for her innovative creations in the field of furniture design. This hanging chair, also known as the "Hanging Egg Chair," is a modern design icon, symbolizing both lightness and freedom in its approach.

With an elegant and enveloping ovoid shape, constructed from woven rattan over a metal frame, the "Egg" creates an intimate cocoon for the user. Its structure allows for a gentle sway, enhancing the playful and organic nature of the design.
